

What is the difference between a chiropractor (D.C.) and an osteopath (D.O.)?

Chiropractors base their care on the detection correction, and prevention of vertebral subluxations. We use specific spinal adjustments to correct the spine, to improve nerve system functions and reduce nerve interference.

Osteopaths use drugs, surgery, and other traditional medical therapies and only occasionally use manipulative procedures.

Back to How can Chiropractic help me?